

The rift-army will number nearly five millions.

The democrats are making a good many off-hand admissions that Blaine will be elected.

The democratic mud-batteries have been leveled at Butler all along the line. Does Butler's candidacy hurt them?

The New York Sun is not shining for the democrats this year. It shines only for those who are politically righteous.

The more the people examine the democratic platform the more they don't understand it, and the stronger they will oppose it.

Mr. Cleveland wishes that he could be as fortunate as Chairman Barnum during the campaign—keep in the background.

The republican watchwords in this campaign are brains, character and statesmanship. Please take notice that they will win.

If Mr. Cleveland wants to become as great as General Grant in one thing, he has an opportunity. Grant's letter of acceptance in 1865 was forty lines long. Can Cleveland make his as short?

The democrats who joined the republican procession, never had so much fun in their lives before. They had the company better, the enthusiasm inspiring, and then they know they are marching to victory, and not to a funeral.

Says Carl Schurz: "Be wary of the political jobber, for, in the very nature of things, he is always the monopolist's pet and best-fellow." That is the reason why the democrats are bolting Cleveland by the thousands, and also why Blaine will be elected.

Our democratic friends may as well give up the ghost. Misfortune after misfortune is befalling them. Their own friends started bad stories about their own candidate. Then the independent matter up. The Puritans of the republican party entered the ranks of the democrats; and now "Brick" Pomeroy has come out for Cleveland.

Mr. Blaine tells us that the country has increased in wealth thirty thousand million dollars ($30,000,000,000) in the two decades from 1860 to 1880 which mark the reign of his party; and he intimates that this large growth in wealth is the product of the protective tariff policy which his party inaugurated in 1861 and has maintained up to the present day. And it can be added, that without a protective tariff such a marvellous growth would have been impossible.

The callers at the headquarters of the national republican committee in New York, who come from all parts of the Union, say there are unmistakable signs of a remarkable spontaneous enthusiasm among republicans, and a determination to elect Blaine and Logan by a majority that will be a surprise to the democrats. This feeling they say, is not confined to the northern states, but that the principles of protection has won to the republican party southern democrats who do not wish to see the new prosperity of their part of the country injured by the triumph of the free trade party.

Col. William F. Vilas, the graceful and genial young statesman, whose skill as a parliamentarian so charmed the national democratic convention, predicts that Cleveland and Hendricks will sweep Wisconsin as with a broom in November. Some friend of Vilas should take him out behind the fence and impress upon him the fact that he is infringing upon a patent right, which belongs exclusively to John G. Thompson, of Ohio.—Philadelphia Press.

Don't interfere with the Colonel's predictions. The only comfort the democracy of Wisconsin has this campaign is hearing William talk about Wisconsin going for Cleveland. Of course it gives them temporary hope, and that is all the Wisconsin democrats ever get out of a campaign.

Only a month or so before the national republican convention was held, the New York Times in a momentary condition of sanity, said: "It is with no partisan satisfaction that we trace those plain evidences of the rooted imbecility of the democratic party. We regard it as an evil and a nuisance. . . . But the fact that democratic success would be so severe a blow to the country only renders it the more necessary to strengthen our party to prevent it, for, bad as the democracy is, it will surely beat us with any but our best men." The Times is now in line with the "rooted imbecility" and the democratic party, and is laboring hard to make the people believe that while the party is extremely bad, Cleveland may possibly reform it.

I am for that party whose policy is to stand by our home industries, to protect labor and encourage American citizenship.

I hold that the prosperity of our country depends not on how many great scholars and millionaires we produce, but on the prosperity of the great producing masses.

Words of Wisdom from Solon Chase the Maine Labor Leader

James G. Blaine will be the first president taken from civil life who was not a bread-laver.

I believe him to be the greatest American commander, the friend of the great army of wealth producers, and one in whose policy we can safely confide.

I shall vote for James G. Blaine.

It may not be always wise to quote John Kelly, but he is a close observer of men and things, and as a political prophet, he is known to be far from the mark. He has recently written a letter to a political friend in Alabama, in which he says: "The position of our party in the country [New York] and the state stands in this way at present; the laboring class, on whom we relied mainly for support, are now pronounced against Governor Cleveland, and it will be difficult for us to convince them that their condition would not be improved by the election of the opponent of the gentlemen." The condition of things in New York—that of tens of thousands of working people deserting Cleveland—shows that John Kelly speaks by the card.

It is the first duty of a good government to protect the rights and promote the interests of its own people. The largest diversity of industry is most productive of general prosperity and of the comfort and independence of the people. We therefore demand that the imposition of duties on foreign imports shall be made not for revenue only, but for raising the requisite revenues for the government shall be so levied as to afford security to one diversified industry and protection to the rights and wages of the laborer, to the end that active and intelligent labor, as well as capital, may have its just reward, and the laborer may have his full share in the national prosperity.

We therefore denounce the abuses of the existing tariff and subject to the preceding limitations we demand that Federal taxation shall be exclusively for public purposes and shall not exceed the needs of the government economically administered.

he was accustomed to take some crumbs of bread and moisten them and make a little ridge around the hole with the moistened crumbs, to hold the solder in place as he melted it. This was what was called a "tinker's dam," which he brushed away after he had finished as it was utterly useless. So that our Pilgrim fathers used the words "not worth a tinker's dam," never dreaming that they were prophetic.

Report of Jno. L. Davenport on the Money Letter Mystery.

A New York Lawyer of Easy Conscience Said to Be the Author—Synopsis of the Proof Presented.

New York, Aug. 16.—The long-delayed report of Jno. L. Davenport, the famous money letter mystery, is published. It makes a book of 150 pages. It is largely made up of facts and figures showing the forgery in its various forms. The narrative is only a brief part of the whole volume. The book sets forth that the person who actually penned the forged money letter was a lawyer of this city named Henry H. Hadley. Davenport describes him as the manipulator of insurance companies of doubtful character and of other matters equally precarious with a man of love of intrigue, and with a cunning for the time of the commission of the forgery. He was secretary of the New York Republican association, in the room of which the forgery was committed on or about Oct. 4, 1883. The forgery, according to Hadley's admissions and confirmatory evidence collected by Davenport, was originally in the form of an extract from a newspaper in which the forgery was committed on or about Oct. 4, 1883. The forgery, according to Hadley's admissions and confirmatory evidence collected by Davenport, was originally in the form of an extract from a newspaper in which the forgery was committed on or about Oct. 4, 1883.

Report of Jno. L. Davenport on the Money Letter Mystery.

A New York Lawyer of Easy Conscience Said to Be the Author—Synopsis of the Proof Presented.

New York, Aug. 16.—The long-delayed report of Jno. L. Davenport, the famous money letter mystery, is published. It makes a book of 150 pages. It is largely made up of facts and figures showing the forgery in its various forms. The narrative is only a brief part of the whole volume. The book sets forth that the person who actually penned the forged money letter was a lawyer of this city named Henry H. Hadley. Davenport describes him as the manipulator of insurance companies of doubtful character and of other matters equally precarious with a man of love of intrigue, and with a cunning for the time of the commission of the forgery. He was secretary of the New York Republican association, in the room of which the forgery was committed on or about Oct. 4, 1883. The forgery, according to Hadley's admissions and confirmatory evidence collected by Davenport, was originally in the form of an extract from a newspaper in which the forgery was committed on or about Oct. 4, 1883.

CONDENSED NEWS.

The Seamen's union of Chicago, in view of the depression in freights, voted to reduce wages to $1.50 per day.

Three negroes who fired at a freight train at Cass station, Tenn., were pursued and exterminated by a party of citizens.

Three persons recently died near St. Petersburg from the bite of a snake which had fed on cattle infected with rinderpest.

The chairman of the Republican State committee of Pennsylvania says Don Cameron will not be a candidate for the senate.

Oliver Dabyns is engaged in cutting 33,000 acres of wheat in Dakota, which he said to average nineteen bushels to the acre.

The township authorities at Chicago, Illinois, killed fourteen cats, and made a pile, for which $400 was paid to the owners.

In the divorce court at Paris the Due de Beauffort asked to be freed from his wife on account of her ruinous extravagance.

The coroner of Long Island City has written to the sister of the Henry, of the Greely expedition, for authority to examine the corpse.

A German family of five persons, the youngest a girl of 5 years, walked from New York to Janesville, Wis., since May 25, carrying their stores in a cart.

Robert Stubbelt, who settled in Meadown county, Illinois, in 1831, and was a pioneer settler, died recently, leaving a family of children. At a family reunion recently, 125 descendants were in attendance.

Rumors come from the City of Mexico that several prominent citizens have been arrested for conspiracy to depose President Gonzalez and assassinate Gen. Diaz.

The Irish societies of Chicago held a picnic Friday at Ogden's grove, in which 15,000 persons participated. Senator Grady, of New York, was the orator of the day.

The demise is chronicled of Rev. Dr. John Brown, who delivered an address of welcome to Lafayette at Newburgh, N. Y., in 1824, and was a veteran among the bankers of Cincinnati.

Miss Lulu Taylor, of St. Louis, the daughter of a deceased millionaire, took the black veil at a convent recently, the services being conducted by Archbishop Ryan. She gave $10,000 to the Sisters of St. Francis de Sales.

Physicians told Mr. L. Warner, of Hutchinson, Wis., that his wife was suffering from neuritis of the heart. He sent for one bottle of Atthophrone. What success attended its use may be gathered from the fact that a few months afterwards Mr. Warner wrote to the manufacturer asking to be allowed to take the money for the medicine in the northern part of Wisconsin. "I have used it in my own family," he says, "and have seen it used in two other cases, with great success."

FATAL ACCIDENT.

One Man Killed and Three Others More or Less Injured.

Caving in of the Fifth Ward Fire Cistern.

A fatal accident occurred at the Fifth ward fire cistern at eleven o'clock this forenoon, by which Mr. Thomas Mulcaire, residing with his family on the corner of Palm street and Western, avenue, Fifth ward, (Monterey), lost his life, and Messrs. Thomas Tennant, P. Birmingham and Dan. Zankie, more or less injured. Mr. Mulcaire lived about two hours after the accident. The particulars are as follows. The cistern has caused the workmen much trouble. Last week Thursday a large section of earth on the south side of the excavation gave way, which necessitated the removal of many yards more of earth excavation. When this was completed, about twenty feet of the north wall of the cistern tumbled over, which had to be removed and rebuilt.

At eleven o'clock this morning, while Mr. Thomas Tennant, with Messrs. Thomas Mulcaire, P. Birmingham, and Dan. Zankie were at work clearing away the earth for the east end wall, the north wall, which was ten feet high, forty feet long and twenty inches wide, came down with a crash. Mr. Mulcaire was completely buried under the mass of stone and cement, and was immediately rescued and taken to his home, and Drs. W. H. Palmer and W. H. Judd attended him. His injuries were mainly internal and beyond the reach of surgical aid. He died at one o'clock this afternoon.

P. Birmingham was injured slightly on the knee, being struck by a heavy stone. Mr. Tennant and Zankie received only slight injuries.

Every one has a theory concerning the accident. Some say that the cistern is on a bed of quicksand, and that no wall can be made to stand at that place.

The work is being done under the supervision of Mr. James Shearer, a man of great experience, and one who has the reputation of doing first class work. There does not seem to be any reason to attach any blame to him, as he is simply overseeing the work for the city, and not in the character of a contractor. The cistern is a bed of gravel, no indication of fine sand or quicksand, and is considerably above the water line.

We have been unable to see Mr. Shearer this afternoon, and therefore cannot give our readers his opinion.

Captured in Beloit.

On Thursday night a young man came in to town from the country and put up at Canary's hotel, where he was given a room in company with one Steve Caniff. The young man had fourteen dollars in money in his pocket. At twelve o'clock Caniff got up and went out, pretending that he was sick, and while the young man examined his pants to see if his money was all right, and being satisfied that it was, again retired. Caniff soon returned and went to bed. The young man from the country fell asleep; Caniff took advantage of this opportunity, and disappeared. The young man awoke about three o'clock, and missed Caniff and his money. Marshal Hogan was called, and a search was made for Caniff, but he could not be found. Word was sent to the officers at Beloit and other places to watch for him. This morning Marshal North, of Beloit, telephoned Marshal Hogan that he had arrested Caniff in that city, and Marshal Hogan went down to Beloit this afternoon for his man. Further details will come from the municipal court.

Found Dead in Her Bed.

This morning shortly after seven o'clock Mrs. Charles Constock, residing with the family of Mr. Cornelius Green, No. 7 Chatham street, was found dead in her bed. She retired to her room last evening in her usual health, and although the family occupied the room adjoining during the night, no unusual noise was heard, and nothing known of her condition until a member of the family went to call her this morning, when she was found dead. An examination of the body indicated that death occurred in the early part of the night, from heart disease. Mrs. Constock was in her eighty-fourth year, and had resided in this city many years, for the past fifteen years with her grandson, Mr. Charles F. Constock, who is the only survivor of this branch of the Constock family.

The funeral will take place at the residence of Mr. Green, No. 7 Chatham street, at two o'clock to-morrow afternoon, Rev. G. W. Lawrence conducting the services.

From New York to Dakota.

A few days ago the Gazette mentioned the fact of a German wife and three children arriving in this city, enroute from New York city to Bismarck, Dakota, the family having all their effects in an ordinary two wheeled man-car, which was propelled by the head of the family. We have since learned the following particulars of the family. Henry C. Finn is the name of the head of this family, who is fifty-four years old, he is a box-maker by trade, and was a member of the 53d regiment, New York volunteers during the war; took part in the battles of Antietam, Wilderness, Gettysburg and Fredericksburg, was wounded three times, in the shoulder, through the head and through the body. His wife is thirty-four years old, and their children are aged 4, 6 and 9 years respectively. They left New York city on the 25th of last May, for Redfield, Dakota, via Philadelphia, Washington, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and expect to reach their destination by the middle of September. The wife brook her arm three weeks ago last Monday, and was laid up for four days. They have a hard and troublesome journey before them.

Beloit or Vampire-Which?

Colonel Chas. Ingessoll, P. M., of the Beloit Free Press, never loses an opportunity to express his opinion of the quality of Janesville whisky. Lately his friends in this city have been sorely troubled by the manner in which the colonel conducts himself on his angelic visits. Ingessoll, no doubt, is sincere in his hatred of Janesville whisky, and utterly refuses "to drink" anything smacking of that beverage. It appears that "once upon a time" he took a hurried drink of "the stuff" in one of the suburban rookeries, and before he left the place he made a solemn vow to his mother-in-law, that if he survived, his voice and pen would ever after be in the service of the party of reform, and no more, for ever, would taste, touch or handle mixed drinks in Janesville. He survived, and we have unmistakable proof that he has kept his vow. He was in the city on Wednesday; we met him on the sunny side of West Milwaukee street about ten o'clock in the forenoon when old Sol had succeeded in warring the mercury up close to 100 degrees; Ingessoll looked wild, and we really thought something the matter with him. We made fraternal inquiries concerning his condition, but did not receive satisfactory answer. An ex-mayor notting Ingessoll's peculiar agonizing look, and with a familiar smile, said to him, "Colonel, let's go back and get some lemonade." "No, I thank you, Tom," says Ingessoll, "Tom fellows can't come that dodge on me." He declined several similar invitations during the day. Well, he had some private business to attend to and wanted to return home at noon. He appeared so delirious at noon that he missed the train. We found him wandering around the corridors of the court house, endeavoring to decipher the frescoes on the ceiling, and looking for a blank place on the wall to leave his autograph, when we again inquired the cause of his tarrying so long in the county metropolis. He had something to say of the wanton waste of lead pencils as shown by the hieroglyphics upon the panels, and suggested that it would be a good thing for the county board to appropriate a sum of money to purchase an autograph album and a table to be placed in the corridor that visitors might have a better place to "register." This remark led us to believe that he was all right, and knowing that he could not leave the city until six o'clock we invited him into our sanctum, which he willingly accepted. It was now half past two o'clock—our busy time. He raised his Columbia in the office. He even refused to touch his water, and expressed his private opinion of Janesville beverages—we were then convinced that he had 'em bad.

While Ingessoll was in the office, the Surgeon-General of the state militia dropped in for a little chat, and noting the unsettled condition of the Beloit man's mind, he spoke something about "rats," and then gave us a little "rat item," which appeared in the Gazette on Thursday evening. This was a new theme for Ingessoll, and he commenced on Janesville rats; Janesville could beat the world, let them have their own way. He left the office near six o'clock, and as he went leisurely along the hallway he imagined that the building was overrun with rats; in fact he never experienced so much trouble with rats. We understand that he lost a night's sleep thinking over the doctor's rat story, and on Thursday evening he gave vent to his feelings on rats as follows:—

RATS OR VAMPIRE—WHICH?

"Frequently in the past the Free Press has lifted up its voice in warning against the dangers that beset all who are compelled by misfortune to dwell either transiently or permanently within the precincts of Janesville. To strangers such a warning, even for the shortest period, is full of danger, danger which comes in such unexpected shape and at unannounced time. And for the permanent resident, when strangers are so scarce, that there is not enough to go around, and when the reported danger, John Spencer, grows ravenous on a long continued low diet, then do troubles and dangers thickly beset their pathway, and their nights become hideous through appalling uncertainty of what is in store for them before another flash of that sun which still persists in dimly shining on Janesville and the wraith as well as on the just.

The latest horrible development of life in Janesville was related to us by Dr. Palmer of that city, for the truth of which no better authority can be given. Two or three nights ago the parents of an infant child retired for the night placing the infant between them. Shortly afterwards the mother was awakened by two painful cries of the baby. After some little time with patient motherly tenderness and still she succeeded in soothing the distressed babe into quietude, and relaxed once more into slumber, only to be again suddenly awakened by the renewed cries of her child. Extending her arm to gather her babe to her breast, her hand came in contact with a big rat. Naturally enough, she being a woman, she uttered a scream that rang through the room, and the father, from the sleep and springing from the bed, he lit a lamp just in time to see a huge rat rapidly leaving the room by the open doorway. Upon examination it was found that one of the baby's hands had been severely bitten, an artery, in fact, having been torn open, by which wound the child had lost much blood and was in a weak and would soon have been in a critical condition.

The supposition is that the wound was caused when the child gave the first alarm, and that the detestable animal being thus frightened away, returned to its prey after quiet prevailed.

In order to arrive at a full and true understanding of this matter the Free Press would advise its readers, before accepting the rat theory as correct, to thoroughly read up concerning vampires—human creatures who doctored on human blood and who were popularly supposed to possess the power to transform themselves into convenient shape to enable them to drink the precious fluid of their sleeping victims. There are more things under the (Janesville) sun (or moon) than is dreamed of in Beloit philosophy," thus spoke Billy the Great, by the mouth of the Norse.
